Coal Combustion Rule: OLEM published a preliminary coal combustion residuals (CCR) open dump list. AES Puerto Rico appears on this list of facilities that are considered to have a CCR open dump. Open dumps, in this context, refer to facilities which are not in compliance with the federal CCR rule because either do not have a website with CCR rule compliance information or the required fugitive dust control plan is not posted on the facility's website. AES was included in the list because it does not have a compliance website. OLEM also released the list of available web sites where companies have posted information as required by the CCR regulation.
